THE BIG-DOME TRUST: Allen Dulles, CIA head is always on the alert to build senatorial goodwill for his super-intelligence agency. Other day, while lunching at a D. C. bistro, he spotted a law-maker and his wife at another table, so he ambled over and after passing a few complimentary remarks, said, "Well, so long Senator, and it was nice to see you again, Mrs. Moody." The Senator replied: "Mr. Dulles, I am NOT Sen. Moody. I am Sen. Potter. And I DEFEATED Sen. Moody in the last election..." Moody, who covets a return to the seat to which he had been appointed by Michigan's Gov. "Soapy" Williams can't have it. Soapy plans to run himself against Sen. Ferguson. Phil Hart, who is married to Detroit Briggs' heiress, will get the gubernatorial nod.
